When we dream our ego shows us what it wishes for. We imagine what our ego wants.

When we wake up, we are dependent on time and nature. But we can think and ponder on our actions to be carried out on the world. But time scrolls and our actions are bounded.

We are forced to follow the world and act on the world on a small scale. If we did not act on a small scale, we would create chaos. We are a society's cell acting individually for the whole. The fabrics are the companies or our associations.
